

Cheryl Rice
Senior Consultant

Cheryl Rice is a consultant and executive coach with The Leader's Edge. Cheryl has more than 15 years experience improving individual, team and executive performance. Her areas of expertise include empowering individuals to thrive during times of personal and organizational change, coaching leaders to identify and apply their strengths for maximum business impact, and helping executives plan and lead large-scale change efforts. Additionally, she has designed and delivered leadership development initiatives and skill-based programs on topics including change management, team development, and interpersonal communication.

Cheryl has held significant positions in the healthcare, financial services and technology industries. Most recently, she was Director of Organization Development for AstraZeneca Pharmaceuticals. Before that she was a VP of Leadership Development at ACE International; she has also had positions at CIGNA, NovaCare, and SMS.

With a Bachelor of Arts degree in Psychology from Monmouth University, a Master of Science degree in Counseling from the University of Pennsylvania, and a Master of Science degree in Organization Development from Pepperdine University, Cheryl brings significant academic training to compliment her practical work experience. Additionally, Cheryl has completed her professional coach certification through the Coaches Training Institute and has taught classes in organization change at local universities.

Cheryl is a member of the International Coach Federation, the Organization Development Network, the Association for Humanistic Psychology, and the Association for Training and Development.