

BUILDING RESILIENCE FOR RE-ENTRY

STRATEGIES FOR NAVIGATING THE NEW WORKPLACE

As many organizations manage different workplace re-entry models, there are concerns about how to best make the integration or adjustments. Employers need to both navigate concerns and empower their leaders and teams. One way to ensure a more successful re-assimilation is to build the resilience of your talent in order for them to physically and mentally adapt and resume contributions to the organization.

RE-ENTRY CHALLENGES

Re-entry into the workplace comes with many challenges – both for employers and employees who now face:

KEY OUTCOMES

This virtual workshop for teams will give participants the strategies to build workplace resiliency and benefit companies by equipping their leaders with the tools to succeed. Takeaways from the session include:

- Identification of individual resiliency strengths and vulnerabilities through the renowned Resiliency Map assessment
- Increased understanding of energy sources and how to leverage them
- Personalized plan for enhancing resiliency based on tips, tools and techniques shared in the workshop
- New strategies for encouraging resiliency with teams
- Additional resources to expand and strengthen ongoing resiliency

WHITNEY SIAVELIS SENIOR CONSULTANT

Whitney is an experienced and skilled facilitator on the topics of increasing workplace resiliency and building cohesive teams.

She is an ICF certified executive coach who helps individuals develop key leadership skills that deliver results within their organizations.

BRING THIS WORKSHOP TO YOUR TEAM!

For more information, contact Monica Warner at mwarner@the-leaders-edge.com